GBV CASE MANAGEMENT

CHEC is a local NGO working on the HIV/AIDS programme in 7 target districts, ending Gender Based Violence programmes within the 4 districts of Cambodia. Currently, the Gender Based Violence programme requires CHEC to strongly support the case management of the GBV survivors and assist them to have better situation. The Consultant needed to conduct a Gender-Based Violence (GBV) Case Management Training of Trainers (ToT) that is aimed at building the capacity and commitment of CHEC participants to undertake programs targeted at eliminating GBV, implement quality programs to not only prevent gender-based violence, but to address its far-reaching after-effects on girls and women.

This training is to assist CHEC staff in standardizing approaches to GBV Case Management in the field through the most important international guidelines. It also provides participants with knowledge, multiple examples of practices at the field level.

Objectives of the consultancy:

- To Identify the principles guiding GBV case management;
- To train participants with skills to conduct a thorough assessment of a survivor's safety, medical, psychological and legal needs;
- To train participants on how to create a thorough plan with a survivor to connect her/him with services;
- To provide participants how to document the case action plan with and for a survivor;
- To train participants on how to effectively implement the case action plan with the survivor;
- To train participants on how to conduct appropriate case follow-up and closure;
- To train participants to understand practical application of safe and ethical information management in informed consent, data storage, information sharing, and analysis.

Outcomes
